THE HIGBEE COMPANY

kirkwood: past tense
opened

The 15th annual junior May Show of The Cleveland Museum of Art opens May 14 in the 10th floor auditorium of The Higbee Company. The show is a collection of work by youths enrolled in Museum art classes.

Friends and relatives of 160 junior artists, aged 6 to 16, will preview the show at a punch party, between 4:30 and 6 p.m. opening day. More than 160 pictures in water color, gouache, collage, poster, woodcut, drawing and other media will be on display publicly for about two weeks during store hours.

Museum educational instructors made selections from classes for members' children, for specially gifted children and for gallery, summer-out-door and bus groups. The work, often inspired by the Museum's permanent collection, is considered the best and most interesting of that done by the young artists in the past year. Many of the pictures have previously been displayed in the Museum.
